

Word of the Week

What a racket Valentine's Day is!!!! I am convinced that the owners of the greeting card industry sat around one day and came up with a way to make millions!!! The question I have for them is this, "Shouldn't families be showing each other their love every day of the year?????" I challenge you to make a commitment to do something special for your family at least once a week and see how it will affect your relationships! I am really not down on Valentine's Day, I just get frustrated with the idea of doing something sweet only once a year. Come on people....let's share the love!

Happy Valentine's Day Everyday!
